

You Can't Avoid Your Friends Forever

by GoldGuardian2418

Category: Transformers/Beast Wars

Genre: Friendship, Hurt-Comfort

Language: English

Status: Completed

Published: 2016-04-12 07:39:31

Updated: 2016-04-12 07:39:31

Packaged: 2016-04-27 19:22:47

Rating: T

Chapters: 1

Words: 964

Publisher: www.fanfiction.net

Summary: When Starscream tries to avoid everyone, three others show him that he can't avoid them for long. Done as a request for EmeraldMoonGreen. :)

You Can't Avoid Your Friends Forever

**EmeraldMoonGreen, who owns Kristin, asked for this one. Here you go, Amiga! Enjoy! :)****

**Transformers Prime belongs to Hasbro. I own nothing.****

* * *

>You Can't Avoid Your Friends Forever

Predaking stretched a bit as he came back into the base from outside. He had spent a good two hours flying around the sky, waiting for any of the others to join him. Optimus, Megatron, and Soundwave had joined him, but he noticed that Starscream hadn't. He even asked Megatron about it.

The former warlord had noticed that Starscream seemed to be avoiding them all and had no answer as to why. Even Optimus found it puzzling.

The Predacon decided to search for Starscream.

* * *

>Starscream was looking outside the window, his wings drooped in sadness. He sighed and turned away, his spark feeling heavy.

Although the war had ended, he was restless, the peace he thought he'd have wasn't there. And he had been avoiding everyone lately, even the children. A knock on his door startled him.

Immediately tensing up, Starscream quickly jumped into his sleeping berth and closed his eyes, hoping Predaking would think he wasn't there. The door opened a moment later and the massive bot walked in. "Starscream?" He asked again.

The flyer let out a high-pitched shriek of surprise and fright as Predaking trapped him underneath his massive claws. "Starscream, why have you been avoiding us?" He asked.

"It's nothing, Predaking," Starscream said after a moment.

"What?!" Starscream shrieked in fear, but Predaking pinned him down more and smirked before he started on the flyer's wings.

And it tickled very badly.

He then gave Starscream a breather. "I'll keep this up unless you tell me the truth," he said to him.

"But the war has ended," Predaking said, looking concerned.

"Not that kind of peace."

Confused at first, Starscream just nodded in agreement. "Maybe if you 'got that off your chest', as humans say, you'd feel better."

"Well then, I am still hungry."

"Wait!"

Predaking had been about to tickle Starscream's second worst tickle spot when the flyer had cried out and so looked at him.
"Yes?"

Starscream sighed. "I truly am sorry for how I treated you," he said. "You're certainly much smarter than I am."

Predaking was a bit surprised at the last sentence. "I believe we have the same amount of intelligence," he said.

That didn't make Starscream feel better, which the predacon noticed. "Okay, you apologized, but you're still moping," he said. "You leave me no choice."

With that, Predaking began playfully eating Starscream's stomach and the flyer burst into loud laughter. "AAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAA!
AA
AA!" He laughed, unable to say a word.

"Look at you, Starscream," Predaking said teasingly. "Getting your yummy, _widdle_ tummy eaten."

The teasing baby talk made his predicament much worse.

* * *

>Soundwave and Megatron were headed to Starscream's quarters when they heard him squeal loudly. "NOHOHOHOHOHOHO! STOP!
CAN'TÂ€|AAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAA!"

They were stunned for a moment before they started chuckling. "Well, looks like Predaking got to him first, doesn't it, Soundwave," said Megatron.

"Indeed," Soundwave said in agreement.

Starscream saw them standing in his doorway. Predaking had as well, but then blew a raspberry in Starscream's stomach, making the flyer squeal again. "Megatron! Soundwave! Please, help me!" Starscream begged.

They smirked. "Predaking, since you had the same idea as we did, would you mind if Soundwave and I helped you?" Megatron asked.

"Would you, please?" The predacon asked. "It is a bit difficult to hold him down as he is a 'wiggle worm', as humans say."

"No! Please! Let me up!" Starscream begged again through his laughter.

"Not until you see that you can't avoid your friends forever, Starscream," Soundwave said with a chuckle.

The flyer whimpered a little, but Predaking fixed that quickly by blowing another raspberry into his captive's stomach, making him squeal in laughter again and his laughter went higher when Megatron tickled Starscream on his feet and Soundwave chose to tickle Starscream's wings.

Finally, after a couple hours, they stopped and Starscream scrambled back, curling up, but he was still laughing a little. The other three chuckled.

"Come on," said Megatron. "I believe I hear the children."

"As do I," said Predaking as he kindly helped Starscream get to his feet, supporting him as the flyer stumbled a bit to get his balance back.

The four headed for the main room and Starscream paused a moment before going in. "Predaking? Thank you," he said.

The massive bot smiled. "You're welcome, Starscream," he said, giving him a friendly clap on the shoulder. "Anytime."

* * *

>Please leave a review, but no flames!

**GoldGuardian2418**

End
file.